Senior Database Developer

Description

Are you looking for a job with a good and appreciative working atmosphere and an open, humorous team? Absolutely flexible working hours? Promote your further development? You're in luck - we are currently expanding our enthusiastic team. Who we are? We are global leaders in the analysis and optimization of IT environments for all aspects of collaboration and communication.

Due to the growth of our Microsoft product range, we are looking for a highly motivated and experienced who will join our development team in Vienna and concentrate on our Microsoft M365 solutions.

Senior Database Developer (f/m/x)

As a member of the team, you will

- Design and optimize our database system architecture
 - Work with the team to shape how we collect, store, and visualize data
 - Ensure data accuracy and integrity
 - Apply critical thinking skills to understand the context of the data we process
 - Contribute significantly to the creation of new products and functionalities
 - Research and implement new technologies

We'd love to talk to you if you have

- 5 years or more experience with database systems (SQL and/or NoSQL)
- Strong interest in learning new technologies in the Azure world (primarily ADX and Kusto - experience with those is optional but a big plus)
- Experience in optimizing database systems and -queries
- Experience with data analytics
- Good team skills, but able to work independently
- Fluent English and German (oral & written)

Also good are

- DevOps experience
- Software development skills
- Scrum team experience
